Education: the key to fighting poverty

The vision of President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo is to deliver the Filipino people out of poverty and to education the backbone of her administration.

Without wavering from her commitment to put poverty where her heart is, President Arroyo has allocated an unprecedented increase in the basic education budget from P90 billion in 2003 to a record P149 billion in 2006.

Thanks to PDEA's successful fiscal reforms, education is beginning to get the "lion's share" it deserves.

More classrooms, better trained teachers, and quality textbooks of latest update, as well as higher achievement levels of students.

Expanding Pre-school

With the status of pre-school attendance as the best barometer to gauge children and their parents' economic standing, DepEd is currently expanding its pre-school program to further reduce drop-out and dropout levels.

Reaching the Unreached

DepEd has strengthened its alternative learning system to get more out-of-school youth enrolled at 5.5 million and increased enrollments approximately at 5 million in non-formal education, whether formal or non-formal, so that they all get a slice of life's opportunities.

Keeping Boys in School

The Gender-School program -- the government's unique drop-out rate (DOR) reduction strategy -- has since 2003, the program has already reached over 5 million pupils. One way to keep children in school is to let them work to reduce or empty stomachs.

Improving the Achievement Levels of School Children

DepEd created a better learning environment by introducing more classrooms -- more than 44,000 from 2004 to 2006 from various sources. Funds for construction came from the Arroyo-School Program partners, bridge donors, SPWT, ITL, and many more. It also hired better-qualified teachers and covered new principal positions to fully carry out school improvement plans.

Teacher placement. Schools improved the school-to-work ratio even as the ratio of teachers significantly dropped.

These education programs have resulted in a 20% increase in the mean percentage score of Grade 6 pupils in the 2006 National Achievement Test -- from 54 to 64 in 2005. These encouraging results bring Grade 6 scores to the level of 75 MPD by 2010.

BLOW AGAINST PIRACY

Customs, OMB agents seize P200M fake goods

By Rogelio C. Diaz

A joint operation by the Bureau of Customs (BOC) and the Office of the Ombudsman (OMB) agents seized P200 million worth of fake goods, including counterfeit clothing, shoes, and electronics, from a warehouse in the city of Manila.

The operation was part of a larger effort to combat piracy and counterfeit goods in the Philippines. The BOC and OMB agents found the warehouse filled with thousands of items, including clothing, shoes, and electronics, all of which were seized and destroyed.

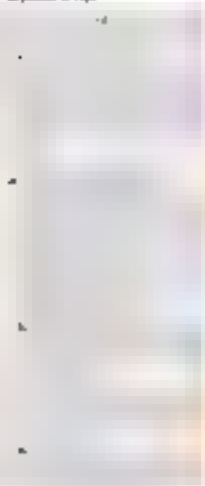

Figure 1 consists of six scatter plots, labeled (a) through (f), arranged in a 3x2 grid. Each plot shows the relationship between the 'Number of children' (x-axis) and the 'Number of children in household' (y-axis). The data points are represented by small circles. The plots show a positive correlation between the two variables.

- (a) Number of children: 0 to 10; Number of children in household: 0 to 10.
- (b) Number of children: 0 to 10; Number of children in household: 0 to 10.
